

Inauguration of Seerah Museum in Nouakchott

Indian Prime Minister meeting in Jeddah

Paris dialogues and Gaza exhibition tour

Academic engagements in the United States

Eid sermon in Tirana

Secretary General leads the prayers

رَابِطَةُ الْعَالَمِ الْإِسْلَامِيِّ

MUSLIM WORLD LEAGUE

THE MUSLIM WORLD LEAGUE JOURNAL

"All of the people are the children of Adam, and Adam was created from dust."

*Prophet Muhammad
Sunan al-Tirmidhi 3955*

Volume 55 | Issue 2
APR - JUN 2025

P.O. Box 537 - Makkah, Saudi Arabia
Email: mwljournal@themwl.org

Assistant Secretary General
for Corporate Communication
Abdulwahab Alshehri

Editorial Director
Naif Alturki

General Manager of Content
Yasser Alghamdi

Publication Manager
Abdullah Ba Musa

In this issue

● Culture and Heritage

Prophetic Biography Museum launched in Nouakchott..... 6

● Global Engagements

Jeddah meeting with Prime Minister of India..... 10

Meetings with French ministers 12

Discussions with French Institutions 16

● Academic Dialogues

Lecture on Islamic Civilization at Duke University..... 20

Stanford lecture on Values in the Face of Conflicts 26

● Faith and Community

Meeting with a British Islamic delegation 30

Eid sermon in Albania 34

Historic mosques in Makkah..... 37

رَابِطَةُ الْعَالَمِ الْإِسْلَامِيِّ

MUSLIM WORLD LEAGUE

بِسْمِ اللَّهِ الرَّحْمَنِ الرَّحِيمِ

أَدْعُ إِلَى سَبِيلِ رَبِّكَ بِالْحِكْمَةِ وَالْمَوْعِظَةِ الْحَسَنَةِ
وَجَادِلْهُمْ بِالَّتِي هِيَ أَحْسَنُ إِنَّ رَبَّكَ هُوَ أَعْلَمُ بِمَنْ

ضَلَّ عَنْ سَبِيلِهِ وَهُوَ أَعْلَمُ بِالْمُهْتَدِينَ ﴿١٢٥﴾

سُورَةُ النَّازِعَاتِ

In the name of Allah, most Gracious and most Merciful

Invite 'all' to the Way of your Lord with wisdom and kind advice, and only debate with them in the best manner.
Surely your Lord 'alone' knows best who has strayed from His Way and who is 'rightly' guided.

Surah Nahel - vers. 125

A unified message of dialogue and cooperation across continents

Across three continents, the Muslim World League's recent engagements reflect a clear and consistent message: meaningful dialogue, principled leadership, and cultural understanding remain essential in today's world. From Nouakchott to Paris to the campuses of Duke and Stanford, the MWL advanced conversations that bridge intellectual, diplomatic, and civilizational spheres.

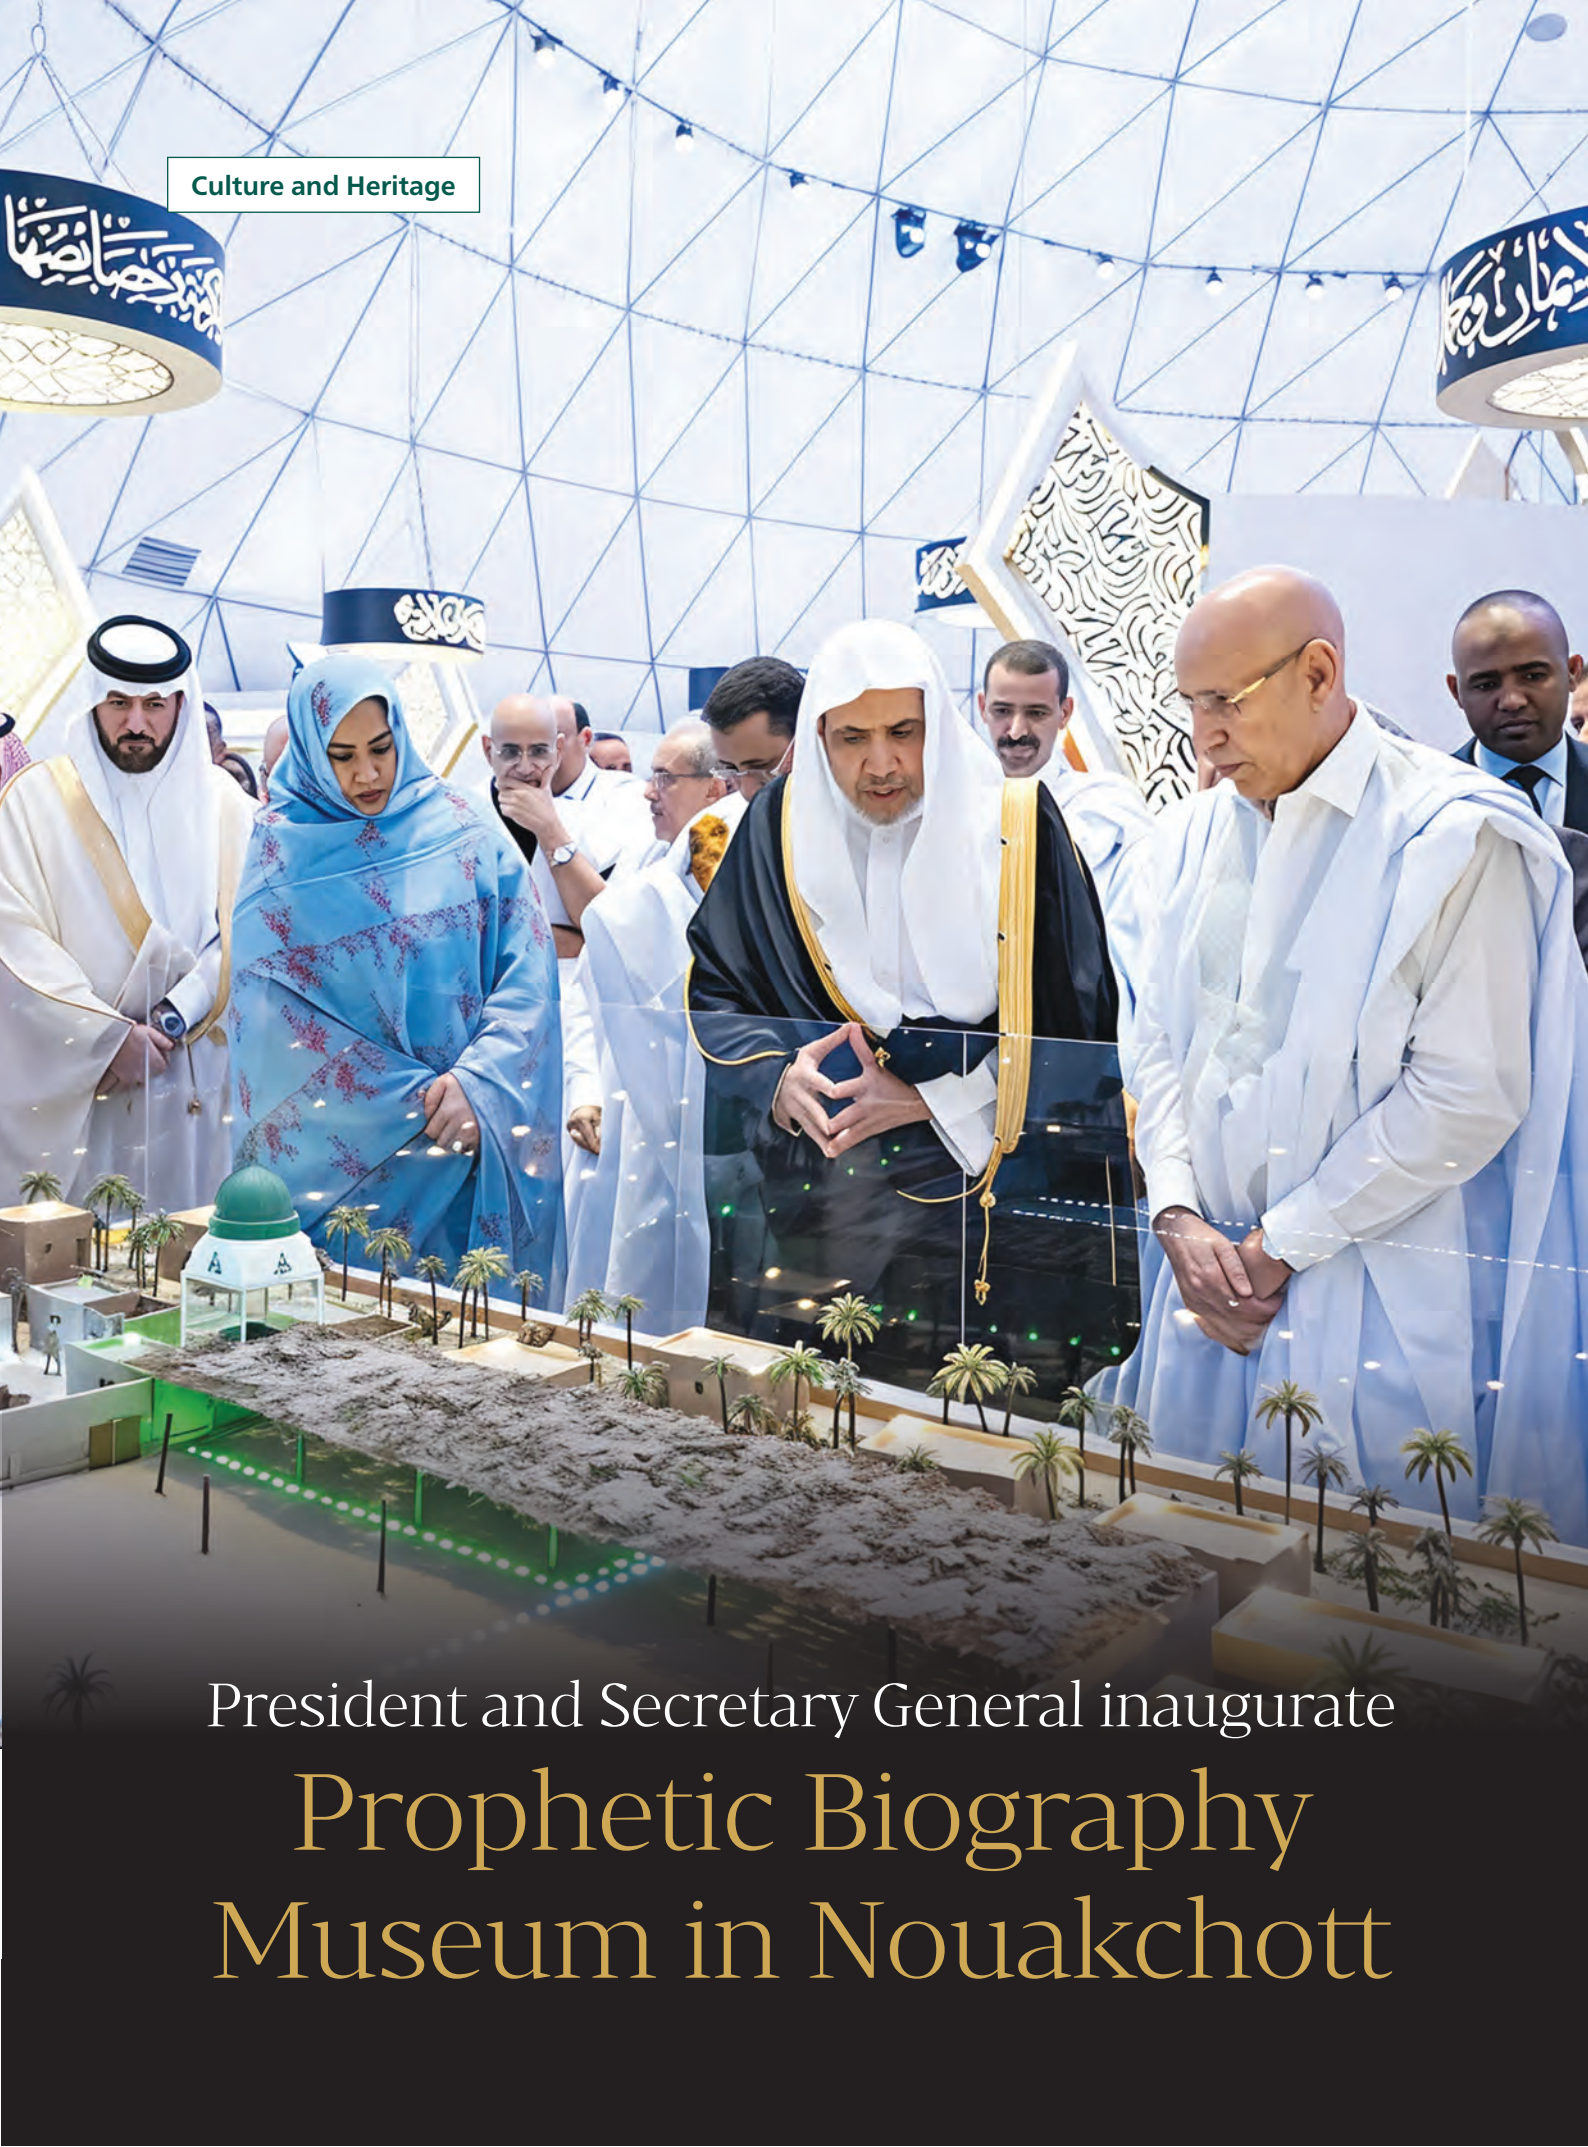

In Paris, discussions with senior French ministers and leading research institutions underscored the importance of confronting misconceptions and strengthening cooperation on issues of global concern. Dr. Al-Issa's participation in academic dialogues and his visit to the Gaza exhibition highlighted the role of cultural heritage in resisting narratives of conflict and division.

In Nouakchott, the inauguration of the Prophetic Biography Museum marked a milestone in the MWL's global cultural network—an affirmation that the values embodied in the Prophet's life continue to inspire intellectual and spiritual depth across societies.

Engagements with India's leadership, along with major lectures at Duke and Stanford, further demonstrated the MWL's commitment to evidence-based scholarship, interfaith collaboration, and the promotion of coexistence. These platforms allowed for rigorous exploration of contemporary challenges, from ideological polarization to climate ethics.

Together, these initiatives reflect a unified vision: building bridges of understanding in a world that urgently needs them. ■

Culture and Heritage

President and Secretary General inaugurate
Prophetic Biography Museum in Nouakchott

The President of Mauritania and the MWL Secretary General inaugurate the International Fair and Museum of the Prophet's Biography and Islamic Civilization in Nouakchott.

His Excellency Mr. Mohamed Ould Ghazouani, President of the Islamic Republic of Mauritania, together with His Excellency Sheikh Dr. Muhammad bin Abdulkarim Al-Issa, Secretary General of the Muslim World League, inaugurated the International Fair and Museum of the Prophet's Biography and Islamic Civilization in the Mauritanian capital. The new museum forms part of the institution's broader international President Ghazouani and Dr. Al-Issa tour the museum.

Culture and Heritage

The President and the Secretary General receive a briefing on one of the exhibits.

expansion, which extends from its main headquarters in Madina, Saudi Arabia.

During the opening ceremony, Dr. Al-Issa expressed his deep joy at inaugurating what he described as “the most noble museum for the most noble life.” He highlighted the noble character and life of Prophet Muhammad, peace be upon him, noting that his exemplary qualities are deeply rooted in the hearts of believers who follow the guidance of Islam.

President Ghazouani and Dr. Al-Issa at one of the pavilions of the new International Fair and Museum of the Prophet's Biography and Islamic Civilization in Nouakchott.

Dr. Al-Issa emphasized that the museum plays a vital role in fostering greater intellectual and spiritual awareness. It presents key events and scenes from the Prophet's life—in full adherence to Islamic guidelines—allowing visitors to experience, in a scholarly and immersive manner, the spiritual essence and uplifting presence of the Prophetic era, as if journeying through its sacred moments. ■

President Mr. Mohamed Ould Ghazouani, and Dr. Muhammad Al-Issa discuss matters of mutual interest following the inauguration of the Prophetic Biography Museum in Nouakchott.

MWL Secretary General Dr. Muhammad Al-Issa meets Prime Minister of India Narendra Modi in Jeddah.

Secretary General meets Prime Minister of India

Discussions addressed a proposal to hold a summit on diversity and harmony in India

By
MWL

His Excellency the Secretary General of the Muslim World League, Dr. Muhammad bin Abdulkarim Al-Issa, met with the Prime Minister of the Republic of India, Mr. Narendra Modi, in Jeddah in late April, where they discussed a number of topics related to the MWL's mission and objectives. The discussions included a proposal to hold a Summit on Diversity and Harmony in India—a country rich in cultural, religious, and ethnic diversity, and home to the world's largest Muslim minority. The proposed summit aims to reinforce the values of coexistence and mutual respect. ■

The cover features a wide, ornate border with intricate floral and geometric patterns in gold, blue, and red. At the top center, there is a large, colorful illustration of a stylized floral motif, possibly a tulip or a similar flower, rendered in gold, blue, red, and green, set against a dark blue background with a scalloped top edge.

The Charter of Makkah

By the Conference on the “Charter of Makkah”

Under the Umbrella of the Muslim World League

Convened between 22-24 Ramadhan 1440AH corresponding to 27-29 May 2019

Global Engagements

Dr. Al-Issa meets French ministers in Paris

Talks addressed shared interests and global issues

Dr. Al-Issa and Mr. Bruno Retailleau, Minister of the Interior, at the former's residence in Paris.

By
MWL

Meetings discussed issues of mutual interest and global concern

The Secretary General of the Muslim World League, Dr. Muhammad bin Abdulkarim Al-Issa, met with several French ministers during his visit to Paris to discuss issues of mutual interest. Dr. Al-Issa met with Foreign Minister Mr. Jean-Noel Barrot, Interior Minister Mr. Bruno Retailleau, Justice Minister Mr. Gerald Darmanin, and Minister for Equality Ms. Aurore Berge.

The meetings discussed intellectual and contemporary issues related to the MWL's mission and areas of mutual interest and global concern. ■

Global Engagements

Dr. Al-Issa and French Minister for Foreign Affairs Mr. Jean-Noël Barrot hold talks at the ministry's headquarters.

The Secretary General meets with French Minister for Equality and the Fight Against Discrimination Ms. Aurore Bergé.

Mr. Gérald Darmanin, Minister of Justice and Keeper of the Seals, welcomes Dr. Al-Issa at the ministry.

A luncheon was hosted by the Minister of Justice and Keeper of the Seals in Dr. Al-Issa's honor.

GAZA,
CITÉ DE PHILISTIE,
AUX PÉRIODES
ASSYRIENNES, PERSI
STOUH

An official briefs Dr. Al-Issa on the Gaza exhibition's collection documenting 5,000 years of heritage.

Secretary General engages French institutions

Dr. Al-Issa meets researchers and policymakers and tours Gaza exhibition

A photograph on display at the Gaza exhibition.

“

Dialogues addressed a collection of widely circulated, explored, and often misunderstood intellectual and religious terms, in addition to the ethics of artificial intelligence

”

By
MWL

The Secretary General of the Muslim World League, Sheikh Dr. Muhammed bin Abdulkarim Al-Issa, held a series of discussions in Paris with leading French institutions, addressing several contemporary issues related to the MWL’s mission, and clarifying common misconceptions about several religious terms.

Dr. Al-Issa’s visit to France came at the invitation of the French Institute of International Relations (IFRI), one of the world’s most influential and internationally recognized think tanks, which hosted a symposium where he engaged in discussions with the Institute’s Secretary General and a distinguished group of researchers, experts, and thought leaders

French daily L’Opinion also convened a roundtable with Dr. Al-Issa, bringing together researchers, policymakers, and opinion-makers for an in-depth dialogue on contemporary issues related to the MWL’s mission, including Islamic legal perspectives, commonly misunderstood religious terms, and the ethics of artificial intelligence.

Dr. Al-Issa exchanges greetings with an official outside the Arab World Institute in Paris.

Dr. Al-Issa concluded his visit with a tour of the Arab World Institute’s Gaza exhibition, which documents 5,000 years of the Strip’s archaeological and cultural heritage through photographs and preserved artifacts. The Exhibition also highlights the recent destruction and damage to Gaza’s mosques, churches, and UNESCO-listed heritage sites.

“

The visit included extensive discussions on a number of contemporary issues and clarifying the Islamic legal stance on them

”

The Institute also hosted an extensive discussion with Dr. Al-Issa, focusing on the Institute’s role in promoting understanding and cooperation between cultures and in countering the concepts, slogans, and practices of civilizational conflict — a mission closely aligned with the MWL’s efforts to advance Islam's call for peace. In this context, Dr. Al-Issa recalled the MWL's launch, at the United Nations headquarters in New York and in the presence of international organization leaders, of its initiative Building Bridges of Understanding and Cooperation between East and West, affirming that Muslims — throughout their long, rich civilizational history — have engaged and connected with all people, both East and West.” ■

French daily l'Opinion also convened a roundtable with Dr. Al-Issa.

A section of participants during the discussions following the lecture.

Dr. Al-Issa engaged with a range of issues raised in international writings and reports from think tanks and research centers worldwide.

Secretary General presents lecture at Duke University

A comprehensive review of Islamic Civilization and its contributions to humanity

“

Dr. Al-Issa delivered a comprehensive presentation examining Islamic civilization’s intellectual legacy with evidence-based insights into its contributions to science, literature, administration, and social thought

”

By
MWL

Duke University recently hosted a lecture by His Excellency Dr. Muhammad bin Abdulkarim Al-Issa, Secretary General of the Muslim World League, on Islamic civilization and its significant contributions to science and literature. The lecture offered a well-documented review of Islamic civilization, exploring its multifaceted roles in politics, administration, and society, and addressing the various dimensions within these areas.

The address engaged with a range of issues raised in international writings and reports from think tanks and research centers worldwide, particularly the intellectual debates surrounding legislation, rights, philosophy, and the arts. He provided evidence-based clarifications of several misconceptions and offered a comprehensive discussion of critical topics, including the environment, climate change, family, women, children, and youth. He highlighted the shared values and commonalities among these issues, demonstrating through examples the breadth and diversity of these connections.

A panel of academics and youth leaders from the university offered their reflections following the lecture.

Following his address, Dr. Al-Isa answered several questions about the lecture and other topics of interest to the attendees. A panel of academics and youth leaders from the university then offered their reflections, emphasizing that the lecture

“

Faculty members, youth leaders, and students participated in an in-depth panel discussion following the lecture, reflecting on its academic value and its potential to enrich global research.

”

represented a significant contribution to academic research and highlighting its value as a comprehensive, transparent, and well-documented examination of Islamic civilization. Participants noted its potential for wider academic exchange and engagement.

Audience members listening to the Secretary General's lecture at Duke University.

The event was attended by prominent academic leaders from Duke University, including the Vice President, deans, and faculty members, as well as a number of students. The attendance also included state senators and members of the local Muslim community.

Members of the Muslim community noted that the lecture and the ensuing discussion had effectively addressed widespread misconceptions through thoroughly researched content and a scholarly presentation style well-suited for engagement with international academic platforms.

His Excellency also engaged in a dialogue with the third cohort of young participants in the Youth Interfaith Leaders Fellowship on Climate Change program. The fellowship is conducted through a partnership between the Faith for Our Planet organization and the university's Divinity School and is led by a distinguished group of religious leaders, aiming to mobilize collective efforts and foster meaningful interfaith collaboration in addressing environmental and climate-related challenges.

Meeting with Duke University President

Dr. Al-Issa later met with Dr. Vincent Price, President of Duke University, who noted the lecture and dialogues with faculty members and students offered valuable insights, observations, and clarifications on a range of pressing contemporary issues. Their meeting also included discussions on ways to strengthen the existing partnership between the Muslim World League and Duke University.

Memorandum of Understanding signed

A memorandum of understand-

Academic Dialogues

Assistant Secretary General for Corporate Communication Mr. Abdulwahab Al-Shehri signs a MoU between the Geneva Islamic Cultural Foundation and Duke University's Divinity School in his capacity as the Foundation's Secretary.

The event was attended by prominent academic leaders from Duke University including deans and faculty members as well as a number of students.

ing was signed between the Geneva Islamic Cultural Foundation and Duke University's Divinity School to expand their partnership. The MoU seeks to strengthen the two institutions' collaboration on areas of mutual interest and to empower religious and academic leaders to engage with pressing global challenges, particularly in environmental protection and climate change.

The Geneva Islamic Cultural Foundation is an independent Swiss institution with an established presence across Europe. Its membership spans multiple countries, giving it considerable global standing as an Islamic institution. The Foundation maintains neutrality with respect to any political affiliation and is recognized for its strong international relations and distinguished reputation. Dr. Al-Issa was recently elected the Foundation's Chairman of the Board of Directors, while Mr. Abdulwahab bin Mohammed Al-Shehri, the MWL Assistant Secretary General for Corporate Communication, was appointed as its Secretary in a part-time capacity. ■

Dr. Al-Issa answers questions about the lecture and other topics from academics and students after his address.

Dr. Al-Issa later meets with the President of Duke University Dr. Vincent Price.

Dr. Al-Issa emphasized the fundamental distinction between natural and constructive diversity of thought and the harmful ideological confrontations that fragment societies and undermine national unity.

Values in the Face of Contemporary Conflicts

Secretary General presents a lecture at Stanford University

By
MWL

The Secretary General of the Muslim World League, Dr. Muhammad bin Abdulkarim Al-Issa, delivered the lecture Values in the Face of Contemporary Conflicts at Stanford University, in which he offered an in-depth explanation of several Islamic values and clarified several concepts from an Islamic perspective. Dr. Al-Issa discussed the complexities of ideological conflicts—both religious and intellectual—examining the dangers they pose and proposing practical solutions. He emphasized the fundamental distinction between natural and constructive diversity of thought, which is an inherent aspect of human existence, and the harmful ideological confrontations that fragment societies and undermine national unity. The importance of mutual understanding, peaceful coexistence, and constructive cooperation was underscored as essential responses to such challenges.

Audience listening to Dr. Al-Issa's lecture at Stanford

The lecture highlighted a range of prominent theories that influence ideological landscapes, particularly those that advocate the transformation of ideas into rigid and exclusionary dogmas. His Excellency warned of parallels in other domains, such as economic

“

Dr. Al-Issa clarified key Islamic concepts, stressing the importance of understanding their legislative objectives and their ongoing relevance. A clear distinction was made between authentic Islamic teachings and the actions of individuals or groups that may claim to represent them freedom, which can become entrenched beliefs that overshadow values of justice and solidarity. Nonetheless, he affirmed the legitimate right of states and institutions to pursue their national interests within ethical and legal boundaries.

”

A number of university academics, students, and distinguished invitees attended the event.

“

The lecture emphasized the fundamental distinction between natural and constructive diversity of thought, which is an inherent aspect of human existence, and the harmful ideological confrontations that fragment societies and undermine national unity

”

The lecture also addressed the principles of international law and international humanitarian law, offering a concise overview and evaluating their application in the context of current global events.

The lecture reviewed several global MWL initiatives aimed at fostering peace and cohesion among societies and nations. Dr. Al-Issa elaborated on several Islamic values, offering insights, proposed solutions, and practical models for implementation. He clarified key Islamic concepts, stressing the importance of understanding their legislative objectives and their ongoing relevance. A clear distinction was made between authentic Islamic teachings and the actions of individuals or groups that may claim to represent them.

Special attention was given to the Charter of Makkah, including its inclusive Islamic consensus, the motivations behind its development, and a brief summary of its core principles.

A luncheon was held in honor of Dr. Al-Issa in the presence of deans and faculty members.

The lecture concluded with an engaging discussion session where attendees explored key themes through questions, surveys and dialogue.

A number of university academics, students, and distinguished invitees attended the event, underscoring its significance and recommending that the lecture's themes be expanded into a book to be published by the university.

A luncheon was subsequently held in honor of Dr. Al-Issa, attended by deans, faculty members, and distinguished guests. ■

Students and guests attending the Secretary General's lecture at Stanford.

Dr. Al-Issa holds discussions with a delegation of British Islamic leaders in Madinah.

British Islamic leaders meet with Secretary General in Madina

The meeting discussed key issues concerning the Muslim community in the United Kingdom

By
MWL

His Excellency Sheikh Dr. Muhammad bin Abdulkarim Al Issa, Secretary General of the Muslim World League and Chairman of the Organization of Muslim Scholars, met with a delegation of British Islamic leaders to discuss key issues concerning the Muslim community in the United Kingdom.

The meeting also emphasized the importance of standing with the Palestinian cause and raising a strong voice calling for an immediate end to the genocide inflicted on the people of Gaza, affirming that expressing solidarity with them through all peaceful means is a legitimate right.

Members of the delegation engaged in the meeting's discussions with the MWL Secretary General.

It also highlighted the need to remain vigilant against any attempts aimed at weakening the cohesion of Muslim communities or broader national fabrics. It praised the major transformation brought about by the Charter of Makkah, especially in its message to non-Muslims. Its powerful and lasting influence on key contemporary issues embodies a long-awaited Islamic hope—reflecting the exceptional

“

The meeting emphasized the importance of standing with the Palestinian cause and raising a strong voice calling for an immediate end to the genocide inflicted on the people of Gaza, affirming that expressing solidarity with them through all peaceful means is a legitimate right.

”

consensus of moderate Islamic thought.

The delegation also underscored the importance of the Delegation members praised the transformation brought about by the Charter of Makkah during the meeting.

“

The transformation brought about by the Charter of Makkah and its powerful and lasting influence on key contemporary issues, reflecting an exceptional consensus of moderate Islamic thought.

”

Document on Building Bridges Between Islamic Schools of Thought and Sects in uniting the voices of Muslim minorities around major issues within their respective national frameworks, noting that the Document’s unifying content gathers hearts around the voice of reason, wisdom, and faith, extinguishing all sectarian strife. They emphasized the need to implement this document through practical programs in Britain and across Europe—without undermining sectarian particularities — by working together on shared Islamic values that unite all Muslims and strengthen their positive engagement in society.

The delegation later visited the MWL’s International Fair and Museum of the Proph-

The meeting called for opening a Prophetic Biography Museum branch in London to connect Muslims with the life of their noble Prophet.

et's Biography and Islamic Civilization—also known as the Prophetic Biography Museum—and called for replicating the experience in various countries—including the British capital—given its rich educational content and the powerful messages it conveys through impressive modern technology.

They expressed strong support for transferring the museum experience to the city of London—and from there to tens of millions of annual visitors—backing the initiative through all available means so that it

“

The delegation expressed strong support for transferring the experience of the Prophetic Biography Museum to the city of London and from there to tens of millions of annual visitors may serve as a platform connecting Muslim minorities with the life of their noble Prophet, peace be upon him, and presenting to the world the truth of his blessed biography. ■

”

Dr. Al-Issa leading the Eid prayer at the Great Mosque of Tirana.

Secretary General delivers Eid sermon in Albania

The Great Mosque of Tirana is the largest in Albania and the Balkans

By
MWL

At the invitation of the President of the Republic of Albania, Mr. Bajram Begaj, the country welcomed the Secretary General of the Muslim World League and Chairman of the Organization of Muslim Scholars, Sheikh Dr. Muhammad bin Abdulkarim Al-Issa, to deliver the Eid al-Fitr sermon at the Great Mosque of Tirana, the largest mosque in Albania and the Balkans. The sermon drew a large congregation, including leading Albanian scholars headed by the Grand Mufti and President of the Islamic Community of Albania, Sheikh Bujar

The Secretary General addresses worshippers during the Eid sermon in Tirana.

Spahiu.

Dr. Al-Issa opened his sermon by extending heartfelt congratulations to the Islamic Ummah on the occasion of Eid al-Fitr, underscoring that it is a day of joy, gratitude to Allah, and renewal of Islamic values. He emphasized the importance of strengthening bonds of faith and reinforcing the ties of brotherhood. He further noted that Eid is a day of tolerance and an opportunity to deepen love and goodwill—values that Islam extends to Muslims and non-Muslims alike.

He went on to highlight the Quran’s guidance as “the most upright path,” offering the most enlightened and just framework for individuals in all aspects of life—belief, worship, dealings, and be-

“

Dr. Al-Issa emphasized the Quran’s guidance as “the most upright path” and called for strengthening brotherhood, compassion, and the ethical image of Islam havior. Dr. Al-Issa affirmed that Allah sent our Prophet, peace be upon him, with a sound natural disposition and high moral character. Through these innate principles and noble values, his message reached the world, leading people to embrace Islam with open hearts. Today, Muslims number nearly two billion, and since the dawn of Islam, no force has been able to challenge its truth or weaken the faith of its followers; rather, attempts rooted in ignorance and hostility have only strengthened their conviction.

”

Dr. Al-Issa also stressed the im-

Worshippers listening to the Eid sermon in Tirana.

“

Addressing a large congregation in Albania’s Great Mosque, the sermon praised the nation’s model of coexistence and urged Muslims to embody Islam’s noble values in action importance of preserving the reputation of Islam, stating: “There is no doubt that every Muslim takes pride in their religion, but true pride is demonstrated through action. Likewise, every Muslim cares about Islam’s image, but genuine and beneficial concern lies in each of us being an ambassador of goodness for our faith, embodying the steadfast principles and high values of Islam—values that are not swayed by circumstances, desires, provocations, or agitation.”

”

He praised Albania for its remarkable social harmony, describing its people as an exemplary model of religious devotion, societal cohesion, and peace. He commended their distinguished example of coexistence, tolerance, and noble ethics, as well as their active and influential role within their nation and the wider world.

Dr. Al-Issa further underscored the centrality of the family as the cornerstone of every nation, serving as the nucleus of society and its primary safeguard. In this context, he highlighted the vital role of a believing woman in her community and her significant contribution to raising righteous generations and building strong, resilient families. ■

Makkah's historic mosques

Cradles of faith along the Hajj path

By
Abdullah
Hussein

Makkah is home to many landmarks dating back to the time of the Prophet Muhammad, peace be upon him. Among them is Mount Noor, crowned by the Cave of Hira, where the Prophet used to worship before the revelation of the Qur'an's first verses. There is also Mount Thawr, where he and Abu Bakr Al-Siddiq, may Allah be pleased with him, sought refuge during the migration to Madina.

The city also hosts several historic mosques pilgrims encounter as they perform Hajj. These mosques commemorate defining moments in the spread of Islam, and many still stand today as enduring witnesses to an extraordinary history that shaped a global faith.

Al-Jinn Mosque

Al-Jinn Mosque

Located between the road leading to Al-Ma'la Cemetery and Al-Ma'la Street, it is believed to have been built in the second or third century AH (eighth or ninth century CE). The structure has been renovated several times over the centuries, most recently in 2000, during the reign of King Fahd bin Abdulaziz, when it was expanded to feature a contemporary design that incorporates its traditional stone exteriors.

Al-Ijabah Mosque

Al-Ijabah Mosque stands in the al-Ma'abda district, to the left of the road to Mina. It is believed to have been built in the 2nd century AH (719 – 816 CE). The mosque was later reconstructed in a modern style and now covers about 400 square meters. It was last restored in 1998.

Al-Bay'ah (the Pledge) Mosque

About 300 meters northeast of the Great Jamarah (Jamrat al-Aqabah), this open-air mosque is on the southern slope of Mount Thabir, overlooking Mina. It commemorates the Second Pledge of Al-Aqabah, when 72 men and two women from the Aws and Khazraj tribes pledged their loyalty and support to the Prophet, peace be upon him, in the thirteenth year of his mission. The mosque was built later, in 144 AH (approximately 761 CE), by the Abbasid Caliph Abu Ja'far al-Mansur to commemorate the event.

Al-Khayf Mosque

Situated at the southern foot of Mina near the First Jamarah, al-Khayf Mosque was built where the Prophet, peace be upon him, was reported to have offered prayer when he was in Mina. The structure was expanded and renovated in 1987 while preserving its inscriptions that date back to 625 AH (between 1227 and 1228

Al-Ijabah Mosque

Al-Khayf Mosque

CE) The mosque has also been included in the Prince Mohammed bin Salman Project for the Development of Historical Mosques.

Al-Mash'ar al-Haram Mosque

On the road back from Arafat through Muzdalifah stands al-Mash'ar al-Haram Mosque, marking the site where the Prophet, peace be upon him, stopped and prayed during his Farewell Pilgrimage. It was expanded in 1975 and now covers 5,040 square meters, with a capacity for 12,000 worshippers. It has two minarets, three main entrances, and decorative windows and balconies surrounding its roof.

Al-Bay'ah (Pledge) Mosque

Namira Mosque

One of the most significant sites in Arafat, the Namira Mosque, is where the Prophet, peace be upon him, delivered the last sermon, Khutbat al-Wada'a. Each year on the Day of Arafah, tens of thousands of pilgrims pray the combined noon and afternoon prayers there, following his example.

Its largest expansion occurred during the Saudi era, at a cost of 237 million riyals. Covering more than 110,000 square meters, the mosque can accommodate 350,000 worshippers. It has six 60-meter-high minarets, three domes, and ten main entrances with 64 doors. A dedicated broadcasting room transmits the sermon and prayers worldwide via satellite.

Al-Mash'ar Al-Haram Mosque

Al-Taneem Mosque

Namira Mosque

Al-Hudaybiyah Mosque

Located in the al-Shumaisi area, about 24 kilometers from the Grand Mosque, al-Hudaybiyah Mosque stands near the historic well of the same name, where the Prophet, peace be upon him, took the Pledge of Ridwan under a tree with his companions. The modern structure was built beside the original stone-and-plaster ruin.

Al-Ji'ranah Mosque

In the small village of al-Ji'ranah, near al-Sharā'i district on the road to Taif, stands the mosque marking the boundary of the Haram. It is believed to have been built before the ninth century CE at the site where the Prophet, peace be upon him, assumed ihram to perform umrah after the Battle of Ta'if.

Al-Hudaybiyah Mosque

Al-Taneem Mosque

Located about 7 kilometers from the Grand Mosque, al-Taneem Mosque was built in 854 CE at the site where Aisha, may Allah be pleased with her, assumed ihram during the Prophet's pilgrimage. Also known as the Mosque of Aisha or the 'Umrah Mosque, it is the most common place where residents and visitors of Makkah begin their 'umrah. The complex covers 84,000 square meters, with the mosque itself occupying 6,000 square meters and accommodating around 15,000 worshippers. Its design blends contemporary Islamic architecture with traditional decorative elements. ■

Al-Ji'ranah Mosque

رَابِطَةُ الْعَالَمِ الْإِسْلَامِيِّ

MUSLIM WORLD LEAGUE

PEACE

